New England's Monthly Numismatic Catalog

NERCG Offers the Redfield Collection

New England Rare Coin Galleries is proud to be bringing you two very special rare coin offerings in this month's Inventory Selections. On pages 11 and 12, you'll find some exquisite Morgan Dollars from the famous LaVere Redfield Collection. Mr. Redfield passed away late in 1974, leaving behind the world's largest known collection of U.S. silver dollars. 85% of the Redfield coins were uncirculated. New England's specimens have been hand-picked by our own numismatists and are being offered to collectors here for the very first time. They include some highly active key dates that no serious Morgan collector should be without.

Also offered in this month's issue is an extremely rare and beautiful 1842 Small Date Proof Quarter. No regular business strikes of this coin were ever made, and only 6 examples of the proof are known to exist. For the complete story of this elusive rarity, turn to page 7. And see our color page for a stunning view of the coin's gorgeous rainbow toning.

Our thanks to all of you who participated in our special Collector Survey last month. Response was tremendous, and we'll be publishing some of the most interesting results as soon as they're tabulated.

Please remember that you can extend your Inventory Selections subscription for a full year (12 issues) simply by purchasing $150 or more from our retail inventory. A purchase of $275 or more will extend your subscription for 2 years (24 issues). And don't forget that you can have a free sample copy of Inventory Selections sent to a friend by filling in the appropriate information on the back of your New England Order Form.

Dear INVENTORY SELECTIONS reader:

In recent months, the rare coin market has been phenomenally active. Buying and selling at New England have been going on at an incredible pace, and we are extremely gratified that so many collectors are turning to us daily for their rare coin needs.

However, we realize that, because of this incredible activity, it is becoming increasingly difficult for INVENTORY SELECTIONS readers to purchase the coin they want. Last month, we were forced to tell many of you that the coins you wished to order had already been sold. We regret these instances, and we wish we could fill your order every time you call. But, when it comes to specific coin types and dates, even New England's vast inventory is limited. And with today's unprecedented market demand, it's simply not possible to stock enough of any one type/date for every customer who wants one.

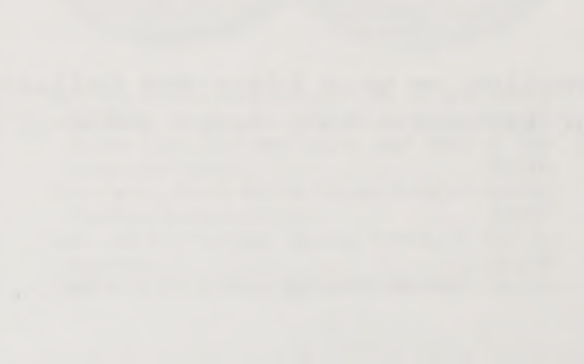

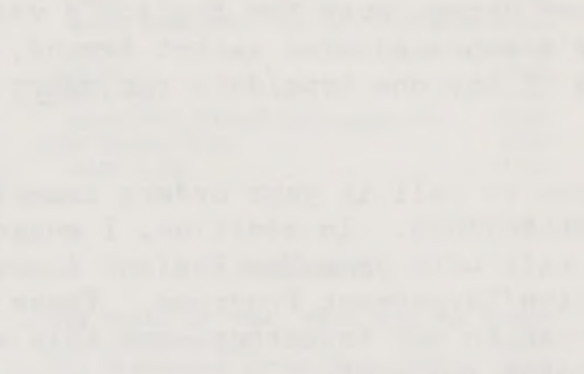

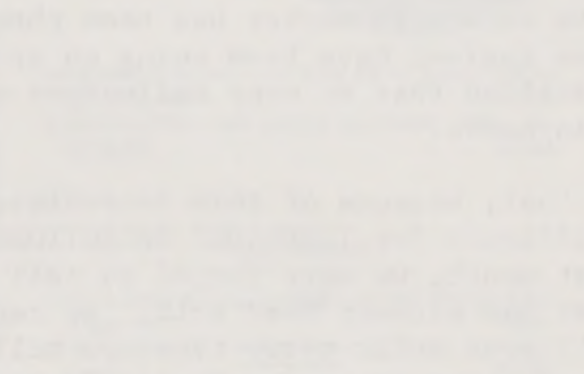

This is why I urge you to call in your orders immediately after receiving your monthly INVENTORY SELECTIONS. In addition, I suggest you send us your Want List, and that you talk with your New England Account Executive about our personalized Collection/Investment Programs. These services are designed to give you constant access to our inventory--and this will increase your chances of getting the coins you want.

Best wishes,

Christopher Tracey
Vice President

Charles O. Browne

When asked about the day they first became interested in coins, most professional numismatists pause and think for a moment. But not Charles O. Browne. Charlie simply smiles warmly, as if the question has conjured up his favorite memory. "I know exactly when it was: 1958. I found a '37 penny in some pocket change and thought I was an instant millionaire." From that moment on, Charlie was hooked.

Charlie soon moved on to nickels, dimes, quarters and other circulated coins. Finally, in 1965, he graduated to uncirculated pieces. "I put up a sign in the supermarket where I worked that said 'MONEY' in big letters. People would see that and call me from all over to sell their coins. By the time I turned 18, my collection was worth about $15,000-$20,000."

In 1974, Charlie was offered his first full-time professional numismatic post with the Massachusetts Coin & Stamp Company. There, he gained extensive buying and selling experience. "I also became super quality-conscious. I learned that a lot of people will pay phenomenal prices for top-quality coins and not even think twice about it — because there's always someone else out there willing to pay you back tenfold." In October of 1977, Charlie's interest in quality coinage led him to New England Rare Coin Galleries. "New England had a prestigious name. And it was one of the few places where I could get to handle lots of high-quality coins frequently."

Charlie currently lives just outside of Boston with his wife of 8 months, Nancy. He enjoys working with collectors and feels that the most important service he provides is accurate grading. "Before I joined NERCG, I thought I could grade. But even though books are beneficial tools, you can't learn everything from them. You've got to handle coins — lots of coins — to become skilled. Now I know what makes an MS-64 better than an MS-63. And I think about that when I select coins for collectors, or put together an investment package. Because, when collectors and investors liquidate, grading makes a big difference."

offers an outstanding silver rarity...

The Famous and Extremely Rare 1842 Small Date Proof Quarter

The renowned and beautiful 1842 Small Date Proof Quarter is among the most exciting and elusive of all U.S. coins. Of the 6 known Proof specimens, one has been placed in the Smithsonian Institution (ex Mint); one belongs to the American Numismatic Society (ex R.C.W. Brock, J.P. Morgan proof set); and 3 are impounded in private collections, trading only rarely. The sixth of the 1842 Proof Small Dates is the present New England Rare Coin Galleries specimen, whose pedigree traces to the James A. Stack Collection, sold by Stack's (Lot 55) on March 13, 1975.

The 1842 Small Date Proof Quarter is a regular-issue U.S. coin that was originally issued in proof sets. The small date die was retired after the few original proof sets were made. No regular business strikes of this coin were ever made, and numismatic history records only the 6 Proof specimens mentioned above. These facts place the 1842 Proof Small Date in an enviable category: "the rarest of the rare" ... far rarer than the 1894-S Dime, 1804 Silver Dollar, 1876-CC Twenty Cent Piece and 1838-0 Half Dollar; and comparable in rarity to the extraordinary 1913 Nickel and 1885 Trade Dollar. Several of these coins have recently changed hands in the $200,000+ price range.

The difference between the 1842 Small Date Proof Quarter and these comparable rarities is affordability: When this identical coin last sold at the 1978 ANA Auction for $32,500, Proof coinage and Library Seated types were relatively undervalued. In early 1979, however, Proof coinage experienced—and is today enjoying—a tremendous surge in demand and value, as have Liberty Seated types. We feel that by selling the 1842 Small Date Proof Quarter at a conservative increase in value since its last sale, we will enable the serious collector to afford a coin of this exceptional quality and rarity.

The New England specimen of the 1842 Small Date Proof Quarter is a handsomely toned Proof-65, with rainbow iridescence on the periphery of both obverse and reverse. Its quality is at least equal to that of the best known specimens, and may well be the finest of all. Our offer of this coin at an affordable price is an exciting opportunity for a serious collector to own and enjoy one of numismatics' extreme rarities, which will probably not be seen again in the marketplace in the near future.

The 1842 Small Date Proof Quarter will be sold to the first buyer at $37,500.

I greatly admired your photo of the 1873 Proof Trade Dollar in the April Inventory Selections magazine. Yet, you were selling the coin for $2,450 and I saw [one of your competitors] selling an MS-65 1873 for just under that. I thought Proof coins were always more rare and, because of that, much more expensive than regular issues. — S.P., Norwalk, CT

As a general rule, Proofs are rarer than regular-issue coins. However, this is not always the case. Sometimes, there are more available Proofs of a certain coin type/date than there are regular issues. The 1873 Trade Dollar is a perfect example. Although Proofs of the 1873 are quite rare (only 900 were ever minted), regular-issue 1873 Trade Dollars in true mint-state condition are even rarer. In fact, less than 30 examples of the 1873 in true MS-65 are known to exist. (This extremely low supply of mint-state Trade Dollars is probably due to the fact that most Trade Dollars were exported to China in the late 1800's and, once there, many were melted down or chopmarked.)

However, keep in mind that a coin's rarity is not the only factor considered when pricing coins. Condition also plays a big role. To fully explain the price differential between any two coins, we'd have to lay them side by side and compare their surface characteristics. In addition, we'd have to consider the current market demand for Proof Trade Dollars vs. MS-65 Trade Dollars. The greater the demand for a certain coin type, the greater its value.

I bought a number of Morgans from a neighbor of mine. Very nice pieces. But they've got a sticky residue from scotch tape on them. Apparently, she used tape to stick them in her album. Is there any way to remove this residue without hurting the coins? — P.R., Pomona, CA

Yes, there is. All it takes is a "Q-tip" and a small bottle of acetone (which you can usually purchase at your local drug or hardware store). Simply dip the Q-tip in the acetone and rub the coin's surface gently. The scotch tape residue should come right off. If it doesn't, do not scrub the coin harshly. Take it to a numismatic expert. He may be able to remove the residue in other ways.

Acetone, by the way, is also useful in removing lacquer from coin surfaces. Sometimes, collectors will lacquer numismatic pieces to protect them from wear and moisture. However, lacquering is not recommended. Eventually, most lacquers yellow and hide the coin's natural beauty.

I would like to find out why Mercury appears on a United States coin (the Mercury Dime). Most of the other symbols on U.S. coins, such as Miss Liberty, Eagles and Presidents, have something to do with America. — K.L., Charlotte, NC

Actually, Mercury does not appear on U.S. coinage. That lithe young lady peering out from beneath the winged cap is supposed to represent Miss Liberty. The addition of wings to her headpiece, placed there by Mercury Dime designer Adolph Weinman, was intended to represent American freedom of thought. However, Weinman's winged cap so closely resembled popular versions of Mercury's winged helmet that the general public immediately mistook the lady's identity. Today, even though the confusion has been rectified, most numismatists and numismatic publications still call Weinman's coins Mercury Dimes." The Guidebook of United States Coins, however, properly lists these coins as "Winged Liberty head Dimes."

Ironically, despite his ancient Roman origins, Mercury would have made an ideal figurehead for U.S. coinage. Aside from being the messenger of the gods, Mercury was also known as the god of commerce. Additionally ironic was Weinman's use of the "fasces" (an axe surrounded by a bundle of sticks) as a symbol for American authority on the dime's reverse. The fasces is an ancient Roman symbol and, to those who knew its origin, its inclusion on the Mercury Dime probably strengthened the impression that Miss Liberty was not Miss Liberty! Moreover, far from becoming recognized as a symbol of American authority, the fasces ultimately became the symbol for a very different kind of authority; that of Italian fascism.

Since there is so much talk these days about Susan B. Anthony as the first woman to appear on U.S. coins, aside from Miss Liberty of course, I was wondering who the first man was. Please advise. — L.J., Glencoe, IL.

The first male to have his portrait placed on regular-issue U.S. coinage was Abraham Lincoln. Prior to Lincoln's appearance, there had been a long-standing prejudice against placing portraits on U.S. coins. Since colonial times, coin portraiture had been associated with the trappings of monarchies. However, in 1909, a proposal that Lincoln's 100th birthday be celebrated by putting his portrait on a coin enjoyed widespread popular support. Spurred on by the people's voice, President Teddy Roosevelt recruited Victor D. Brenner to create the Lincoln Cent.

However, collectors who define "U.S. coinage" a bit more broadly know that, prior to 1909, several male portraits appeared on U.S. Commemoratives and on coins minted during the colonial era. The first of these was the portrait of Cecil Calvert on Maryland's coinage. In June of 1632, Calvert, the second Lord Baltimore, received a charter from King Charles I allowing him to settle Maryland. A few years later, Calvert decreed that his colony should have a simple form of exchange. (At the time, colonists had been using a barter system based on guns, powder and furs.) In 1659, shillings, sixpence and groats, designed especially for use in Maryland, were minted in England and shipped to the colonies. All of these coins bear Calvert's portrait on the obverse and a family crest on the reverse.

Of the 407,283 silver dollars in the famous LaVere collection, 85% were uncirculated. From these beautifully preserved specimens, numismatists have personally selected some of the finest for our customers. Each Morgan has been graded by the finest experts that characterize all of our rare coin offerings. All have been sold phenomenally in recent months. For example, the 1879-CC shot up by 69% last year; the 1887-S shot up by 221%!

Just after the death of LaVere Redfield in 1974, rumors began circulating around Reno, Nevada about "the castle on the hill." "The castle," a huge stone mansion where Redfield had lived out the last days of his life, was said to house a fortune. But no one knew for sure — not, at least, until the end of '74 when IRS agents finally entered the castle to clear out Redfield's belongings. In the castle basement, they found a makeshift wall constructed from thousands of cardboard cartons. Behind it, lying neatly in 680 bank bags, were 407,283 Morgan and Peace Dollars — the largest silver dollar collection in existence. 12½ tons of coins! Atop the bags, a handwritten note read: "Please don't tell anyone about these, because the IRS can't tax anything they don't know about."

To some residents of Reno, the man with the world's largest silver dollar collection was an eccentric. They tell tales of the multi-millionaire who never shaved, bought bent and unlabeled canned food because it was inexpensive, and regularly rolled his pick-up truck down the hill each morning to save the battery. Other Reno residents remember Redfield as a man with stunning foresight and wisdom. Redfield built his estate (estimated at over $60 million by buying "worthless" stocks and land deals during the Depression. At the time, the neighbors laughed. Now, they wish they'd been more like "LaVere."

It was with this same type of foresight that LaVere Redfield amassed his silver dollar collection. Piece by piece, he purchased his 407,283 Morgan and Peace Dollars from his local bank — at $1 per coin. Shortly after his death, the coins sold for over $7 million! According to the Guinness Book of World Records, this is the largest single coin purchase in history.

Nor were Redfield's dollars purchased by amateurs who weren't aware of their true value. Two major numismatic firms spent months bidding for these beautiful, finely preserved specimens — 85% of which were totally uncirculated. And since the initial Redfield purchase, many of these coins have increased substantially in value, not only because of their extreme beauty but also because of their unique history.

Market Report

by Tim LaPointe

At the shows

During the last half of April, one persistent theme seemed to characterize buying activity at all the major coin shows: frustration. Dealers found that truly choice specimens of U.S. coins are now nearly impossible to locate. Many dealers walked away from the Central States and American-Israeli New York shows empty-handed. It was generally conceded that any choice piece priced within 50% over what was formerly considered reasonable is now sure to trade hands at least once during any given coin show.

Gold

Gold bullion prices topped $250 per ounce as of May 7th. This has set off frantic activity in gold coinage. For the first time in recent history, Swiss banks are calling American dealers and attempting to buy back gold coins that were delivered to the U.S. only days before. The Swiss buy-back price of $20 gold pieces (which usually has a direct correlation to the price of $20 gold in the U.S.) hit $385 this month and is currently heading toward the $400 mark. This can only increase the already substantial premiums now being paid here for choice and gem common-date U.S. gold coins. As an example of skyrocketing gold prices, New England buyers report seeing no choice examples of U.S. Type Two Gold Dollars priced under 5 figures. According to Coin Dealer Newsletter, MS-65 examples of these coins are bid at only $5,000.

Silver

The record-breaking activity we've been reporting in Silver Dollars continues to surge ahead unabated. Morgan Dollars are especially active and, from all indications, their prices will continue to climb for months to come. The basis for this prediction lies in the great number of new coin dealers currently entering the market. New dealers tend to use Morgan Dollars as a "base" upon which to start their business, because Morgans are extremely popular, generally inexpensive and easy to learn about. However, to compete with the older, more established dealers, new dealers will be forced to stock decent Morgan inventories. Since the current supply of choice Morgans is low, dealer demand should rapidly increase prices in the series.

In the Peace Dollar series, greater attention is being paid to the quality of strikes. Fully struck examples of some Peace Dollars are currently carrying premiums of several hundred percent (for example: the 1923-S and the 1928-S). Gem condition silver coins in general are almost impossible to locate. Even circulated pieces are now moving rapidly — due, probably, to the recent surge in silver bullion prices from $7.50 per ounce to $8.38 per ounce.

Other news

Nickel and Copper coins, because of their delicate chemical compositions, are being avidly sought only in problem-free condition. The surprising activity of Lincoln Cents we reported last month has cooled. However, Lincolns in gem, spot-free condition are still going for premium prices.

The N.P.I.

This month's New England Market Report introduces a new reader-service feature: the Numismatic Price Index (NPI). Created by New England numismatist Jay Miller, the NPI has been designed to give Inventory Selections readers a crystal-clear picture of current rare coin market trends.

The NPI will create this "picture" in the form of percentage points. Each point you see listed in this month's NPI indicates the average movement of rare coin prices within one of seven coin categories (copper, silver, nickel, etc.) during the month of April. In addition, there is a "total market" percentage point, indicating the average movement of all rare coin prices during April. These two sets of percentage points will appear in each New England Market Report. They will help you follow rare coin price trends as closely and accurately as possible.

The theory behind the NPI is, as numismatist Jay Miller explains, "similar to the Standard & Poor Index of 500 Stocks. To derive the NPI's percentage points, the price movements of a balanced, representative group of quality United States collectible rare coins is traced throughout an entire month. The coins used in our representative group include 144 major type and better date pieces in MS-65 or Proof-65 condition. Earlier type coins, where MS-65's are rarely traded, are charted in VF-20 condition. Esoteric items, such as the 1804 Dollar, the 1913 Liberty Nickel, Colonials and Patterns are excluded. Also excluded are pieces which may be subject to price manipulation, such as modern coins, Proof Sets and Commemoratives."

We hope you find the Numismatic Price Index a useful tool and, as with any new feature introduced in Inventory Selections, we invite your reactions.

1856 UP.5, MS-63, FULL STRIKE	795.00
MS-65. Full blazing mint frost. Akers writes: "The data shows that there were 85 appearances of the 1856 gold dollar with Upright 5, and 169 of the 1856 Slanting 5. This, of course, would seem to indicate that the Upright 5 variety is only about twice as rare as the Slanting 5 variety. This ratio does not match my own experience, however, and I would estimate that the Upright 5 variety is most likely five to ten times as rare."	1,450.00

1841-C, AU-58, FULL STRIKE. According to Akers: "This scarce date is always weakly struck, particularly on the head of Liberty, although most examples do have a wire rim. The specimens that I have seen all have a tiny C mintmark embedded in the feathers of the arrow. Because of the poor striking, many specimens appear more worn than they actually are. Nevertheless, strictly uncirculated specimens are very rare and I have seen only two or three pieces in that grade, the finest being an Unc-60+, coin that Paramount sold last year." This specimen has NO weakness of strike and lovely satin-like fields. .... 1,150.00

1813, MS-67, FULL STRIKE. Blazing lustre, no adjustment marks and not even a hint of rubbing. Absolutely the finest mint state example of this type we have ever seen or handled (with the possible exception of the 1829 Large date which realized $65,000 in the 1976 ANA Sale.). The only common date of the type. A slightly inferior 1813 recently traded hands for approximately $15,000. This piece is expensive, but it's well worth the money. ....	17,500.00

Our Complete Numismatic Services

1. Guarantees

☐ Grading

We guarantee that coins purchased from New England Rare Coin Galleries are graded accurately. They will meet our high standards whenever you decide to sell them. If you sell them to us, we guarantee to purchase them at the same grade as they were when originally purchased from us.

Our grading system is patterned after that of the American Numismatic Association. Developed in 1978, the A.N.A. System is rapidly being adopted by virtually the entire professional numismatic community. Its designations are:

Poor.....	1
Fair.....	2
About Good.....	3
Good.....	4,5
Very Good.....	8,10
Fine.....	12,15
Very Fine.....	20,25,30,35
Extremely Fine.....	40,45
About Uncirculated.....	50,55,58
Mint State.....	60,63,65,67,69,70
Proof.....	60,63,65,67,69,70

Slash grades indicate obverse/reverse designations. For example, a grade of 65/63 describes a coin with an obverse of Mint State 65 and a reverse of Mint State 63.

☐ Authenticity

We further guarantee that all coins sold by New England Rare Coin Galleries are authentic. To protect our customers, and as proof of our certainty that no altered or counterfeit coin can escape our attention, we guarantee to refund the full purchase price, plus 10% interest per year, on any non-authentic coin acquired from us.

☐ Documentation

These guarantees are issued in writing with all coins purchased from New England Rare Coin Galleries. Each written guarantee is personally endorsed by two professional numismatists.

☐ Satisfaction

If, for any reason, you are not satisfied with your purchases, you may return them within 30 days of the date you received them for a full refund or replacement.

2. Expert Counseling

3. Selection

Our multi-million dollar inventory of U.S. rare coins is the largest in the world. New England buyers examine several million dollars' worth of coins each week to bring our customers the very best values.
